

PlanetVal S.r.l

In a market which is becoming increasingly complicated, all sorts of situations have to try to reconcile opposing needs, all of them indispensable for success. These needs include cost containment and innovation, applicable also to communications infrastructures and applications to be used to provide better services for customers. At PlanetVal, thanks to a series of technological partnerships we have with many market leaders, we can design and implement innovative solutions with a lot of added value made possible by the pooling of efforts between various communications infrastructures and multimedia providers. At PlanetVal we have developed a platform which lets us provide interactive television solutions, whatever the underlying communications infrastructure may be. In particular, our programs and experiments cover digital broadcasting and the mobile telephone network.

Completely pooled projects for IP video, data, and voice; applications based on interactive TV technology; Digital Dynamic Signage (DDS) solutions; live streaming video; MHP development.
